Using AI and Robots to Solve Labor Shortages

A: Japan's shrinking workforce is becoming a serious problem. What do you think about using AI and robots as a solution?

B: I think it's a practical idea. [X]

A: That's true. Robots can work long hours without getting tired, which could improve efficiency.

B: Exactly. It could also help industries that already face severe labor shortages, such as agriculture and manufacturing.

A: However, there are some concerns. (以下略)

③物語など 1000 語程度の文章と、その内容を問う問題を出題します。

出題例)

Father was in the army all through the war - the First World War, I mean - so up to the age of five, I never saw much of him, and what I saw did not worry me. Sometimes I woke and there was a big figure in uniform staring down at me. Sometimes in the early morning I heard the front door bang and heavy footsteps marching away down the street. These were Father's entrances and exits. Like Santa Claus, he came and went mysteriously.

In fact, I rather liked his visits, although there wasn't much room between Mother and him when I got into the big bed in the early morning. He smoked a pipe, which gave him a pleasant smell, and shaved, an interesting activity I had never seen before. Each time he left a few more souvenirs behind-buttons and knives and used bullets - packed carefully away in a box. When he was away, Mother used to let me play with these things. She didn't seem to think as highly of them as he did.

(1)The war was the most peaceful time of my life. (以下略)

[Question 1] Why does the narrator think “(1)The war was the most peaceful time of my life.”? Choose the best explanation about his statement.

- (A) He enjoyed hearing exciting news about battles and soldiers.
- (B) His father was away most of the time, so the narrator lived quietly with just his mother.
- (C) He thinks the war was peaceful because there was no fighting in the world at that time.
- (D) He believed that people in town were happier during the war than after it ended.

[Question 2] What does the word (2)one mean? Write it in Japanese.

[Question 3] Rearrange the words below to fill the blank [3]. Note that the first word of the sentence is also written in lowercase.

(who / is / God / it / makes / wars / not)
